My dear Dr Krishnan,

I read in the papers the other day that Solar Cookers are now being manufactured on a commercial scale. I have an idea that they should prove useful in the army and will save a large amount of fuel. I have accordingly suggested to the Army Cookery School to carry out experiments if they would be suitable for use in the Army. I shall be grateful for your advice in the matter.

After nearly two years in the Sangli Mess, I was glad to move into a house on transfer to Ranchi. The place is very nice, but the communications are poor. My wife is disappointed because she does not get much bridge over here.

With kind regards,

Yours Sincerely
