Respected Sir;

Poona-7
27/1/66

I have written a paper "Some mathematical Aspects of High Altitude Gunnery" and intend to publish it. In short, in this paper some theoretical aspects of some of the variations in Ballistic Performance of Projectiles with respect to meteorological conditions prevalent in high altitudes are discussed. It is shown that the existing methods used for correcting for these variations in planes are not correct and adequate for accurate fire in High Altitudes. The magnitude of errors, creeping in, due to large deviations of prevalent Meteorological conditions from standard conditions and the present gunnery methods, have been deduced in terms of percentage variations in standard Ballistic Coefficient of projectiles.

I wish to send you this paper to obtain your opinion + guidance on the work and would request that if found fit the same may be communicated to some journal for which you may consider it to be suitable. Please let me know that whether can I send the same to you for your perusal. This will definitely involve some ~~of your~~ waste of your valuable time but I request you to kindly spare the same for me. To remind you, Sir, I am ~~am~~ enrolled for my Ph.D. degree at Poona University under your kind guidance.

I shall be highly grateful if you can kindly reply me on this at your earliest convenience.

Thanking you.
