

TELEPHONE
OXFORD 3880.

9 SOUTH PARKS ROAD,

OXFORD.

22 July 1946

Dear Sir K. S. Krishnan,

Lady Egerton tells me of your very kind wish to have a talk. I need not say that I welcome the opportunity. I could come to London any day this week <sup>except Tuesday & Saturday</sup> (due at Paddington at 10 am.), preferably on Wednesday or Thursday, & would meet you at any place & time you may name that may be most convenient to you.

On the other hand, should you prefer to come to Oxford on Wednesday or on Thursday <sup>morning</sup>, you would be able to meet my brother, who is a philosopher (which I, alas! am not), & deeply appreciative of the thought of India. He is a Research Fellow in Philosophy at Brasenose College, & would greatly like to meet you. He is engaged on Thursday afternoon, & leaves Oxford early on Friday. It would be a pleasure to my wife & me if in this case you would lunch with us: for choice on Wednesday, but if not, on Thursday.

I am sorry this sounds so complicated!
If I might hear early what suits you best, it would be a help.

I greatly look forward to meeting
you. Sincerely yours
H. N. Spalding