Dear Sir,

Receiving a telegram from home I had come here all of a sudden, leaving all my belongings in New Delhi. My eldest brother was in a critical state. Physicians have not declared conclusively whether it is a case of broncho-pneumonia or pleurisy.

I could not meet you on the day I left Delhi, since Mr. Bevan was visiting the Laboratory.

I will start for Delhi within or six days and will take several reprints on ion-exchange processes which were lying here.

With my best regards, I am yours faithfully,

P. Sarma
