

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a historical document or letter. The text is written on aged, yellowed paper and is mostly illegible due to fading and the style of the handwriting. The document appears to be a formal communication, possibly a petition or a report, given the structured nature of the lines and the use of some recognizable words like "I have" and "I am". The text is arranged in approximately 20 horizontal lines, with some lines starting with capital letters. The overall appearance is that of an old, well-preserved manuscript.

N.B. - A resolution was passed that the papers of the late Rev. J. H. Burdett be preserved in the library of the University of Cambridge and that the same be open to the inspection of all persons who may wish to consult them.

Procurator of the University of Cambridge
John Affleck
Secretary of the Administration