Dear Sreekantan,

Thank you for the copy of your Blackett Memorial Lecture. I was interested in several points and in the illustrations. Your survey of the present position in India is comprehensive.

There's one small point: J.N. Tata is referred to as Sir J.N. Tata but he was not knighted, though many people think so.

I get the impression that not much is happening in India in the Theoretical Physics area despite your references in the first two paragraphs on Page 158. Perhaps it is difficult to pin-point progress in this field. Besides, the layman is always ill-informed in these matters!

I like your concluding paragraphs.

Warm regards

Yours

R. Choksi
