My dear Dr. Krishnan,

Your letter came just a few days ago and since I was on the point of departure for New Delhi, I thought I could meet you and therefore did not immediately write. However, my trip to India has been for the moment cancelled on account of the sudden illness of my wife who has now undergone an abdominal operation for gall bladder. She is progressing satisfactorily.

As regards Dr. Venkateswaran's visit to Bangkok on 5 December, I am not sure whether I shall be here at the time, but have made arrangements for his stay so that he need have no anxiety or difficulty about it. I am finding out possibilities of his giving a talk at the Chulalongkorn University either under the Faculty of Law or the Faculty of Science, and will let you know later about it.

With best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

P.S. Lokanathan
