Dear Dr. Krishnan,

My absence from Delhi prevented my participation in the celebrations connected with your sixtieth birthday. I would have liked to have sent my good wishes earlier, but having returned from Bangkok only last week, I came to know of this happy occasion only from a news reel I saw in which Ganji garlands you. Though belated, I am sending herewith our greetings and good wishes.

A friendship of some forty years is all too rare, and when one is privileged to have it, one is indeed fortunate. The occasion is one which affords as much pleasure to those wishing to be associated with it as to the person concerned, perhaps more. You have indeed a wide circle of friends in more intimate touch with your varied activities. But to one who has been in a back bench, the joy has been no less. Wishing you, good health, long life and all happiness.

Yours sincerely

L. G. Nathoo
