9th June, 1961

My dear Krishnairangar,

My wife and I have been contemplating a trip to Badrinath ever since my retirement in 1950, but somehow we never could get away from the tangles of samsara all these years. My daughter, Leela, and her husband (K. S. Ramaswami) and a party of twenty others (including the mother, aunts, ^{etc} uncles of my son-in-law) have given us the lead, and the party is now in Calcutta & expected to reach Haridwar on the 24th June. We could not join them at Madras as my daughter, Jaya & Nagamani & their children were spending the summer holidays with us, but as they have decided to go back to Bombay & Madras respectively on the 18th we propose to leave on the 19th for Haridwar to join the party. We wish to spend a couple of days in Delhi visiting old & valued friends. My wife is particularly eager to meet Mrs. Krishnan, & her orthodox friends the choice of a place to stay in Delhi to no. 3. Kuskak Road. So we expect to be reaching Delhi on the 21st June, most probably by the de Luxe Express. I shall, however, write to you again. I hope you will be in Delhi at the time of our visit, but even if you are not there, we know we will be quite at home in your place. I trust this will find you all doing well.

With kindest regards,

yours affectionately
S. Srinivasa Rao
