Dear Drs. Ranganayaki,

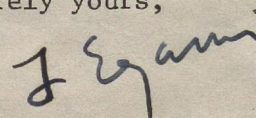

I received your letter dated December 10. I am very much pleased to know you feel interested in my research published in Barcelona. And also thank you for telling me the research of you and your dear husband.

Part of the research is now being done by us. It is related to that  which had been already published by F. Egami and H. Hatanaka at the Annual Meeting of American Society of Biological Chemistry held in June, 1977 (enclosed herein) and is very interesting for me.

I greatly appreciate your kindness if you send me your reprints [J. Brit. Interplanetary Soc. 23, 813-829 (1970); Zbt. Bakt. Abt. II 130, 211-218 (1975)].

With best wishes for your continued success and a Happy New Year!

Sincerely yours,

F. Egami, Director
