My dear Joshi,

My dear Joshi,

I hope that you have received my mail message of 12th May. Since it did not bounce back to me, I take it that you must have been quite busy with day to day activities. The possibility that the mail got sucked away into nowhere also exists as a few of my friends within the US also have not replied to my e-mail sent via the internet/bitnet etc.

I recently saw Dr. Sukumar in a documentary movie on Indian elephants shown on the Discovery channel of our cable tv service. Among other things, this documentary focussed on the poaching of elephants shown quite graphically. Usha and I watched this show for about half an hour and she was particularly impressed by a pair of baby elephants and their development depicted in this documentary.

Everything is generally normal. What is the latest bit of news in India these days? How is your work? I heard from Balaji that Dr. Shamala is visiting US these days. I would appreciate knowing her whereabouts in St. Louis although I guess that she would be working in the Washington University.

Balaji is currently the vice president for structural chemistry in his company. This way, the next job he will have to look for would be that of the company. This way, the next job he will have to look for would be that of the senior vice-president of a company.

A few weeks ago, I recieved a note from Dr. Mathew, but have found no time yet to respond. Please convey my apologies to him.

I was wondering if you can lay hands on a fax number for BARC in Bombay. If you can get one, I would very much appreciate having it.

No words from our friends either in ASTRA research center or NCL Pune. Have the fightings between TN and Karnataka on Kaveri waters subsided? I recently heard that Ms Jayalalitha has declared herself as more or less the Prime Minister of Tamil Nadu.

The election scene is somewhat depressing because of the negative campaigning strategies adopted by all the people concerned. For a moment, it was believed that by dumping Quayle, Bush would give the election some momentum, but that has obviously not happened. Since the masses in this country far more gullible than in India or Pakistan, I am convinced that
