Sir,

I am in due receipt of your letter of the 20th ultimo, and owing to the breakdown in the arrangements at the Press Muthalaiyram could be released only on the Pongal day. I sent you a copy by registered post, and I hope the same has been received at your end.

Regarding the despatch of the 25 books to No.3, Kushak Road, New Delhi, we made enquiries at Madras and we were told that at New Delhi there is no arrangement for house delivery. Can we book the books to New Delhi station?

We have some requests from Delhi that we should arrange for a suitable agency at New Delhi to sell the books. We have been depending upon the institutions and Tamil Sangams for the disposal of the copies, since the books are priced low and we are subsidising one rupee towards the cost.

I shall be very grateful if you could kindly advise me as to what arrangements can be made at New Delhi.

With kindest regards,

Yours sincerely,

S. Rajam
